Dining Places in County To Be Officially Graded

Health District Officials Place New System in Effect; Grade Cards Distributed.

A grading system for the 38 law. One of the checks made most frequently is known as the "swab" test. The swab test is used to determine the bacteria count on eating utensils. A series of "grade cards" to restaurant owners throughout the county. The program, as described by Dr. H. Siffrin, county health commissioner, amounts to a check on the sanitary conditions of all dining places where food is served. The grade cards now being distributed indicate the results of a 17-point inspection schedule conducted by the health office in recent months.

Three different grades are printed on the various cards being handed out. Establishments complying with the various points of inspection receive "A" cards. "B" cards are distributed to those places deficient in only a few points covered by the code. Businesses receiving neither an "A" or "B" award receive a "C" rating.

The grade cards, printed forms with the letter grade printed in color, must be displayed in a prominent position, the code requires. "A" cards are printed in blue, "B" cards in green and "C" cards in red. Each card is mounted in a black frame by the health department. Long experience in public health work leads Dr. Siffrin to believe that more than one sanitarian would be needed to properly introduce and enforce the program. Accordingly, Van B. Hostetter, an experienced food and milk sanitarian, was employed to work with E. B. Willey. Before joining the Marion county staff, Mr. Hostetter served as assistant Delaware county sanitarian.

Monthly Inspection. Inspections determining a restaurant owner's grade are made once a month. The sanitarians visit the establishments unannounced and check any or all of the 17 phases permitted by state law.

The general cleanliness of the establishment and employees will indicate a desire to live up to the American Restaurant Owners' association slogan, "Good Food is Good Health."

Grade "B" winners are those which meet requirements in the clean handling of food, sterilization of eating and drinking utensils and an approved water supply, but which fail to meet a few requirements of the code.

The code requires all employees handling food or drinks to undergo physical examinations by competent examiners.

The Marion county restaurant code is an educational program instituted at the recommendation of state department of health in the interest of protecting public health in the vicinity of the Marion area. No actuary or compulsory measures are used in the promotion of these standards. "B" cards are being so of their own free will.

British Gun Bags Six Tanks

By DANIEL DE LUCE
AP War Correspondent

WITH THE BRITISH FIRST ARMY IN TUNISIA, May 4—(Delayed)—One British heavy anti-tank gun sang a thunderous song of death in Gabgab pass today, mopping up six German tanks before it was destroyed by a shell from a Tiger Mark VI.

The Germans lost 11 tanks (the headquarters communiqué today said 12), including one and possibly two Mark VI's, in two futile attempts to push through the pass just south of El Jebel El Asoud in the Medjerda valley. Possibly 30 tanks were used altogether.

OHIO APPLE CROP OUTLOOK FAVORABLE

Freeze Causes Damage
To Some Varieties.

Although the apple crop in Ohio is expected to be a bumper crop, the outlook is not so bright for some varieties. The freeze in the part of the fruit growing area around Jackson and further south in the state, the April 12-16 freeze injured crop prospects on early blossoming varieties of apples such as Grimes, Jonathan, Stayman, and Delicious. Fruit buds on these apples were in the full pink stage when the low temperatures arrived.

Peach prospects were heavily damaged in the southern part of the state by the same freeze. Orchards in the Ohio valley and those at low elevations with poor air drainage were injured most. Some blossom thinning on peaches occurred at the same time in northern Ohio, but these orchards still have favorable prospects for a full crop.

Previous injury to Ohio peaches was caused by the extremely low winter temperatures. Mr. Beach says that peach trees which had been 25 per cent of live fruit buds well distributed over the branches may produce a normal crop of fruit.

Little information is available on the damage done to plums and cherries, although it is certain that the April freeze reduced crop prospects for these fruits in central Ohio. Probably, there was corresponding injury to these fruits in some other sections, although the damage would be least serious in the heavy producing section near Lake Erie.

COLUMBUS, O.—Elmer F. Kruse, chairman, Ohio U. S. Dept. of Agriculture War Board, reports that the United States in the first four months after troops landed in North Africa, shipped 126,184 tons of food, clothing, medical supplies, and other necessities to that area for distribution to natives under lend-lease regulations.

The shipments included 200 tons of seeds for planting, milk products worth $1,500,000, flour valued at $4,300,000, other agricultural products with a value of $2,100,000, and agricultural implements and parts worth $45,000. U. S. ships in the same period carried 240,000 tons of phosphate rock from North Africa to England.

The distribution of food and other necessities in North Africa follows the policy of making allies of natives. The phosphate rock will be used to increase English crop yields and to reduce the amount of food that nation must import.

The Queen Is Back

BAYONET charges, nights spent within a few hundred yards of the enemy, grenade attacks on German gun emplacements and charges across open space in the face of withering fire are prominently mentioned in accounts of the important United States victory at Mateur—the greatest success of American land forces in the war to date.

Observers on the scene in Tunisia confirm the impression that infantry, "queen of battle," is being restored there in full glory. The planes fly out ahead, the artillery echoes from the rear, the tanks come rumbling through when the way has been prepared, but it's the foot soldier who is carrying the day.

Sometimes in this war infantrymen must have suspected they were almost as archaic as bows and arrows. It appeared that tank experts, aviators, propaganda experts and the Flash Gordons of the blitz technique had taken complete charge. Many an infantryman, seeing all this, must have suspected he was wasting his time learning to pitch grenades, fire from a prone position and defend himself by beating his opponent to the punch in hand-to-hand fighting. Tunisia is the answer to his doubts. It is no more than all Americans expected to hear, but they are particularly pleased with reports that their troops have more than evened the score for what happened to them last February in a different kind of warfare farther south. While a great many preconceived notions about America's role in the war have been knocked on the head by events, nothing has happened yet to the notion that in man-to-man fighting the young men of a football-playing nation with a weakness for rough-and-tumble will do all right.

Pleasant Thought

IF ASKED to pick out some particular job we'd like to have on Marion county bomber attend to when it gets into action there are several we might place on the preferred list.

Best of all, though, would be a direct hit on Berchtesgaden some day when Hitler is there. If anyone has a better suggestion, let's have it. Possibly a delightfully devastating blast at Tojo's hangout would be just as satisfactory.

Keeping the Issues Straight

IN THE order of their importance, the questions raised by John L. Lewis and his union concern, first, the right to strike in wartime and, second, the adjustment of mine wages. The two issues should be kept straight—and separated.

It is sound public policy to eliminate strikes in wartime, there is no domestic grievance important enough to be allowed to interfere with waging of war against the enemy.

Anyone who takes the position that miners, because they work hard, are entitled to strike in order to show their resentment against not being paid as high wages as they would like has missed the point.

Adjustment of mine wages is a matter to be worked out by means of machinery established to facilitate and maintain negotiations. The public issue does not concern wages, but the fact that miners quit work in wartime and forced their government to take emergency action to keep them from crippling the war effort.

Targets

IT IS going to be interesting to see what the experts do with the vulnerability of those big Junkers freight planes to Allied fighters in the battle of the Axis supply lines to Tunisia.

This looks like Germany's application of the theory that airplanes can take the place of surface supply lines. It is a theory of logistics that has intrigued militarists ever since World War I.

The Germans have put it to the test on two notable occasions, first when their besieging army was isolated at Stalingrad, now to reach their trapped African army in Tunisia. On both occasions, the freight planes became so many huge targets for opposing planes.

Their fate up to this time strongly resembles the fate apparently lined up for battleships in their contest with bombers—that of sitting bird targets. But it will not be forgotten, of course, that the battleships have not continued to be as vulnerable as they were at first. New equipment and new tactics have been enabling them to take care of themselves. It remains now to be seen what may be done to save the freight planes from their fate. That is where the experts come in; their best guesses will be none too good.

Paul Mallon Answers Critics of His Views on Wendell Willkie's Book.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 6—A substantial number of constant readers took pens in hands and jabbed same into me for my column of April 23, criticizing Wendell Willkie's fast-selling book, "One World." This mail was as heavy as I have ever received in protest against a column. Some said it was the only column with which they had disagreed so sharply in many a year.

Generally, they pointed out Willkie advanced no valid argument of postwar, but merely set forward a reasonable, restrained accounting of his experiences in flying around the world in 40 days and he concluded that the plane had brought the nations of the world together—a physical fact which should guide us in arriving at a postwar plan.

"What could I find in Willkie's book to protest?" my friends asked.

The basic idea, the fundamental principle it set forth, the premise that Willkie adopted when he wrote the book, the reason for writing it, namely, the conclusion that nearness makes oneness. Willkie has declared himself and, obviously, a great number of my good readers. Distances never have had anything to do with unity. You may have lived next door to two neighbors for 20 years, barely spoken to one and have become very close to another—but not nearly so attached as to a friend who lives on the other side of town, or perhaps one in Canada or Labrador.

Basics of Oneness

Oneness comes from similarity of ideals, habits, customs, methods of living. If Chinese lived next door to you and you did not understand his way of life, proximity would not lead you to be friends. But if you were a Chinese or one who knew the Chinese way of life, intimately, you might become close friends and establish a basis of unity.

Nations are only groups of people in a world neighborhood, and always have been. We have lived many years at equal distance from both Mexico and Canada. With Canada, we share a valid bond of friendship; with Mexico, we had our troubles, now happily adjusted.

Same Old World

Willkie has erred grievously in his primary idea. He is just plain wrong in his initial assumption that whereas this was many world before, the plane has made it one world. It is the same old world. As distances have had nothing to do with the establishment of international friendships of the past, they will have nothing to do with it in the future. We like people who like us, who share our views, hopes, and expectations, and we will always continue to like such people and dislike others regardless of how fast a few can fly back and forth.

Willkie's error is grievous, because if we now base our hopes of peace on a false assumption we will not only be disillusioned sadly, but we are likely to have more international troubles as a direct result, perhaps even war. Only a thoroughly realistic peace can be a lasting peace.

What Plane May Bring

The plane will bring new commercial and military factors. Many people will fly to England in eight hours. Many will use the plane for passenger service instead of boats. From a military standpoint, it will be necessary to acquire bases throughout the world from which we may intercept possible air attacks.

But these are not the things Willkie was talking about. He spoke of political unity as a primary assumption, but the prospective use of the plane commercially and militarily does not itself justify such an assumption. These factors are as apt to lead to rivalry as oneness. Certainly if rivalry is to be avoided entirely, world politicians will have to remake human nature, not only here at home but chiefly abroad.

What Do Others Think?

What I would consider more important than Willkie's views is what Stalin thinks about the future use of the plane and its political effect. And those of Mr. Churchill's one British empire.

A few readers accused me of trying to "smear" Willkie. I have never smeared any one. Smear tactics have been so notoriously pursued in several instances of late years that they should arouse the outraged indignation of every man—regardless of whether the smeared one is right or wrong. Democracy is a debate in which false ideas should be smeared—never the personal dignity of the individual.

Government Freezes Seen as Paralyzing Capacity for Constructive Action.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE ARE NOW at the reckoning for a most costly popular illusion. The notion that inflation can be prevented and a peace economy converted to a war economy by passing laws and issuing decrees that all prices and all wages are frozen as of some particular date.

This doctrine, which is absolutely false and, therefore, entirely unworkable, has resulted in the freezing, not of prices and wages, but of our capacity for constructive action. It has prevented the development of practical measures for stabilizing the cost of living. It has raised unnecessary but insoluble issues between the farmers and the rest of the community and between farmers and wage-earners.

The fallacy of the universal freeze becomes quickly apparent when we realize that it is a proposal to operate the most complex capitalist economy in the world by removing the central mechanism of prices, which regulates production and consumption. This is like removing the steering gear from an automobile.

When you make a decree that all prices and wages are frozen as of a certain date, the best you could conceivably hope for is to get exactly the same economic results that you were getting on that particular date. Everybody ought to go on working where he is, making what he was making, consuming what he was consuming on the day of the freeze.

War Necessitates Changes

But this is precisely what in wartime you do not want. You want millions of men to leave their jobs and go into the armed forces. You want millions of others to go into war industries. You want different goods manufactured, crops in different quantities grown.

Under the theory of the universal freeze you have suspended all inducements and the controls by which your capitalist economy regulates alterations of supply and demand. Then you must not be astonished and pained at having abolished the steering wheel, you cannot drive the economy effectively by the fiat of officials and the rhetoric of press agents.

The heart of our current confusion is in our failure to see that we have two grand but distinct objectives: One is to promote production of the right commodities in the right quantities; the other is to distribute goods at retail in fair ratios at stable

West Coast Japs

Aching Hearts, Goodwill and Good Intentions Not Enough To Solve Problem of Safety.

By DAMON RUNYON

MRS. ROOSEVELT stirred up the writers on the west coast when, in a paper of speaking, she shed tears over the plight of the interned Japs in this country just at the time it was reported that our aviators had been beheaded in Tokyo and the "Skebbies" had slaughtered every woman and child in a number of Chinese communities for aiding Doolittle's men.

Many subscribers took pens in hand and composed blistering epistles to the papers and the first lady of the land, some of them rather ominously what she thinks the relatives of those who have lost loved ones in the war would do if the Japs were returned to their former haunts.

I doubt that Mrs. Roosevelt ever gave thought to this question. She is a kindly and sympathetic with all human beings, but it is exactly that question which the authorities had in mind when they evaluated the congested Jap areas on the Pacific coast.

The authorities knew that as the war commenced to reach thousands of homes across the west coast in the form of casualty notices, resentment of Japs would be more serious than even the possibilities of espionage and sabotage. The Japanese on the west coast knew it too.

It seems to have been forgotten that American-born Japs agreed, after numerous meetings and much discussion, to waive their right as American citizens to fight the evacuation order and to go with the alien Japs wherever the authorities wanted to place them. Prudence prompted this agreement.

THE wiser ones among the American-born knew that it was impossible for the average white American to differentiate between them and the foreign-born, and they realized that under such circumstances their presence among the whites would be a source of irritation and might develop into a great menace to their own safety. They were right.

It requires no great imagination to figure the situation that might now exist if, as the American newspapers headline the dreadful atrocities of the Japs, the famous "Little Tokyo" district of Los Angeles still teemed with its former population of upward of 20,000 Japanese, speaking their own language, following their own customs—a city of an enemy race in the heart of a great municipality.

It would be an invitation to lawlessness that would lower us to the bestiality of the Japs themselves and be a terrible blot upon our name for humanity, besides probably producing frightful reprisals among our own people held prisoners by the enemy. These things can happen. Removal of the west coast Japs was a measure of caution, the wisdom of which is now apparent.

NO one denies that children born in this country of Japan-born parents have the same constitutional rights as the American-born children of German-born or Italian-born parents, or any children born here of any parentage since the birth of the Constitution. No one denies that many of the American-born Japs are loyal to this nation, a belief testified to by the admission of a large number of Japs born under our flag to the armed forces. This to the American-born and loyal Japs is an injustice when similar restrictions are not placed on any American-born children of other aliens or even on some of the aliens themselves.

But the American-born Japs themselves recognized that their situation was unique when they agreed to the evacuation. It must be clear to them at this moment that it is remoteness from their former homes is not without its advantages. The whole problem was peculiarly a Pacific coast problem, and when it was most acute and confusing not even Mrs. Roosevelt had any advice to offer.

It was the American-born Japanese themselves who aided in the solution. Finally, at good or bad as it may be, if they are not parties to any agitation to change the status they must be losing the discretion that current events prove was quite sound.

He started to drive to the place where he would get his windshield stamp. His motor conked out. The car caught fire. Attendants rushed out with extinguishers but found they wouldn't work (not having been inspected, we presume).

The fire department finally arrived, sprayed the charred wreckage and departed. The car was badly investigating salvage possibilities when up marched the inspector and stepped on the sucker on the heat-cracked windshield. It was inspected and approved.

Every Scout subscribes to the Scout Oath and Law. Its citizenship training program is achieved through many projects of civic and community service. The majority of Scouting activities are based on an outdoor program with frequent hikes and camping trips. Troops generally meet weekly for participation in Scoutcraft events and to prepare for their camp expeditions.

Scout Troops are sponsored by churches, service clubs and other civic organizations, all with selected leadership. Scouts are encouraged to advance in rank and to qualify for leadership positions as junior officers in their own Troop. Valuable training is given in many phases of Scoutcraft, such as first aid, signaling, hiking, campercraft, outdoor cooking, swimming, map making, nature lore and handicrafts.

If you are interested in joining the Boy Scouts of America, fill out the form below and return to your teacher. Scout headquarters will then send you a booklet on Scouting, and put you in touch with some Troop in your own church or neighborhood.

Scouting cooperates with the 4-H Clubs and FFA but boys living beyond reach of a troop may benefit from the advantages of Scouting. He then may progress in Scouting and take part in all Council and Honor Court meetings, celebrations and the like. Just ask your school teacher.

The soap situation is getting serious and will be worse before the war is over, a spokesman at Procter & Gamble's Cleveland office declared. Grocers and druggists are already thwarting boarders' attempts by informally rationing soap supplies.

MUSIC FESTIVAL AT MARK STREET SCHOOL

Murals and Other Exhibits Made by Children Displayed.

The spring music festival of the Mark Street school sponsored each year by the public schools music department was presented Tuesday night before an audience of approximately 200 in the school auditorium.

The stage and auditorium were decorated with the flags of the Allied Nations which had been made by the pupils of Miss Jane Murray's 5th and 6th grades. The stage itself was decorated with a huge gold eagle. The program was entirely choral work, with the exception of a violin solo "Serenade" by Miss Norma Jean, daughter of the fifth grade, accompanied by Miss Jane Scott, and a concert reading "America for Me" given by Misses Virginia Price, Betty Platt and Sarah Carter and Tom Taylor and Jack O'Rourke.

Fourth Grade Chorus

The fourth grade chorus directed by Miss Lois Hall and accompanied by Mrs. Clementine Lashley gave "Lady Bug" and "The Mouse" as the songs of China; "The Pedlar" for Poland; "Waltzing Matilda" from Australia; "In All the Country 'Round" for Canada; and "Summer is a Comin' In" and "Mayday Carol" as England's contribution.

The music of Latin America was given by the fifth grade chorus and they presented "Ay, Ay, Ay" from Creole folk songs, "Night on the Water" represented Central America; "Chapaneque" typified Mexico; and the song for Spain was "Estrellita." Miss Hall and Mrs. Lashley were director and accompanist for the fifth grade.

The music of the United States was presented by the sixth grade under the direction of Miss Loretta Gilmore with Miss Philomena Gregg as the accompanist. The songs were: "Homeland," "Water Boy," "To the Wild Rose" and "Wooden Shoes." A selected chorus of the three grades sang "God Bless Our Land" as the closing number.

Murals Shown

Following the program, the audience was invited to see the murals and projects of the sixth grade. Under the supervision of the teacher, Miss Gilmore, the class has discussed its history lessons from the beginning of the school year and each month it has expressed its opinion on the type of mural which would portray that particular study to the best advantage. Two or three of the pupils are skilled enough to sketch in miniature, the basic idea. This sketch is later applied to the space above the blackboards. Four large murals have been completed in water colors. The coloring is supervised by most of the children. The first period depicted is the early pioneers crossing the plains. Each detail is carefully worked out. The second mural pictures the industrial era and gives a comparison between the growing and picking of cotton and the marketing and business involving the final distribution of the product. The coming of the cotton gin is the subject of the third picture and the last one depicts a modern harbor with ships, bridges and the skyscrapers that may be seen in most modern harbors today.

Other Displays

In addition to the murals the sixth graders have also utilized the upper portions of two cloak-rooms to show the scenes through which the early pioneer traveled before they settled. Mountains, trees, covered wagons and all have been shown. Some are painted into the background and others have been constructed from wood and paper and placed on the platform which goes around the cloak-room. The second project shows the four types of transportation of today. In this one, too, the models have been made and placed in realistic scenes. To complete the picture, airplanes have been suspended from the ceiling as if in flight.

All of the work has been done in the workroom in the school by the pupils; the average age of the workers is about twelve years. The work has been under the supervision of Miss Loretta Gilmore who teaches both art and history.

He said he had "no apologies" to make for his private life and insisted he never had invited anyone to his home "as a war broker."

TOJO REPORTS ALL JAP Bases Strengthened

Repeats Determination To Continue War To Victory.

By The Associated Press

Premier General Hideki Tojo of Japan was quoted by the axis radio today as saying in Manila that Japanese fighting forces had "strengthened all strategically important bases in greater east Asia" and were "now prepared to deal a decisive blow at the enemy."

The broadcast recorded by The Associated Press said Tojo addressed some 400,000 persons in Manila in celebration marking the first anniversary of the Japanese taking Corregidor. Tojo declared, the broadcast said, that 1,000,000 inhabitants of greater east Asia were "unanimously resolved to continue the war to a victorious conclusion."

"We are now in readiness to deal a thorough and crushing blow at the enemy's armed power," Tojo was quoted.

The anniversary of Corregidor's fall has been designated officially as a Japanese holiday.

PROPOSES TO PLACE GOVERNORS ON CARS

Would Make Use of Control Device Compulsory.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 5.—Compulsory installation of governors on automobiles to limit their speed to 35 miles per hour was proposed today by traffic Commissioner Martin A. Blecke.

"Cure the machine, not the driver," Blecke argues. "You can't change driving habits of people by asking them to be patriotic and drive slower in order to preserve lives and gasoline. You have to make it impossible for them to go over 35 miles an hour."

"My plan is to place a small disc in the carburetor. The disc could be made out of tin can and installed at home or in a person didn't know the difference between a carburetor and a differential, a garage mechanic could install one of these simple governors in a minute."

The commissioner said he intends to sell his idea to municipal court judges, suggesting as an experiment they reduce fines of speeders if the offenders agree to have a governor attached to their cars.

Blecke said it probably would be necessary for the state to pass legislation if the devices were to be mandatory accessories of automobiles.

The city official pointed out that although there has been a sharp curtailment in the use of cars, 4,003 automobile accidents have occurred in Cleveland so far this year as compared with 3,235 in the first four months of last year. Also, he said, 459 persons have been injured this year as compared with 278 in a corresponding period in 1942.

Blecke ventured the opinion that one important reason for the increase in accidents was more drinking of intoxicants.

Edison Bible Class Members at Meeting

EDISON.—The Ladies' Bible class met at the community room Friday. Mrs. Balducci was a guest. Readings were given by Mrs. N. C. Long, Mrs. Stella Gruber and Mrs. L. O. Taylor. A duet was sung by Mrs. Stella Gruber and Mrs. Theodore Noon.

"Wings Over Washington" is the name of the play to be presented by the Edison Senior class at the high school Friday at 8 p. m. slow time. It concerns a small group of scientists who are gathered on an island and are working for the government on a secret machine.

The play is a mystery and includes the following in its cast: Barbara Osmin, Marjorie Hascrodt, Donald Hall, Barbara Hipsher, Robert Hill, Robert Evans, Mary Margaret Dunn, Maxine Coleman, Dale Guhier, Newton Fate, Marilyn Cronenwell and Elmer Long. Miss Virginia Craven is directing the play.

HAMMERING OF KISKA DELAYS AIR FIELD

Constant Bombing Hampers Work on Jap Base.

By The Associated Press

AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE, May 2.—(Delayed)—An incessant aerial pounding by American bombs has kept the Japanese from completing the air field that has been under construction for several months on Kiska Island.

The bombing pace reached a record rate during April to make the rocky Aleutian island the most consistently bombed spot in the Pacific.

(A compilation from navy communications shows an even higher tempo for May, with 31 bombing raids in the first three days of the month, bringing to 230 the announced raids since Feb. 1.)

The bombers and fighters—the latter often carrying bombs, too—winged westward on their bombing missions on every April day that weather permitted.

Most of the Japanese effort for more than a month, it was indicated, has been directed toward repairing the damage inflicted by the falling bombs. Progress was stopped on engineering projects.

There is a likelihood that the enemy garrison on the battered island base also is running low on food supplies, despite the manpower the Japanese can develop with a supply of fish and rice.

April saw the last of the few Japanese planes driven from the skies over Kiska and the sinking of additional cargo ships off enemy-held Attu, westernmost of the Aleutian islands.

CLOTHES COMFORT
Falls which do not add utility to a baby's garment sometimes actually hamper the child's movement. Ill-fitting button holes, which cause buttons to come open can annoy a child as much as they do grown ups. Mothers who want to be sure their smallest children are good humored will be sure their clothes are comfortable.

Sergeants Heroes of Bomber Flight Over Japanese Base in Pacific

CHARLES P. ARNOT Correspondent with the Associated Press
SOUTH PACIFIC, April
11—(Delayed)—This is the story of a damaged bomber and two air force sergeants whose adventure genius averted a possible crash.
Lieut. John L. Jacobs, 25, of San Francisco, 25-year-old pilot of a Liberator bomber, described Sgt. Van C. Crain, 23, of California, and J. J. Dancy, 21, of Canton, O., as "heroes in my book" tonight after he set the big plane down at this advanced base in a perfect landing. Here's why:
The big bomb load from Jacobs' plane had just crashed into installations on Japanese-held Nauru island, 150 miles northeast of Guadalcanal, when the Zeros swarmed about the formation.

"The first burst of machinegun fire from these Zeros severed my rudder connection cable, and the pedals went limp under my feet," he said. "There was nothing to do but fall out of the formation and take a chance on making it back alone."
Then began a 45-minute running battle during which Jacobs gunners knocked down or damaged at least two Zeros. Gunfire from the enemy planes knocked out the Liberator's inter-communication and oxygen systems and set fire to a liferaft, but not a crewman was hurt.
Sgt. Charles Duren, 21, of Waterbury, Conn., the radio operator, had the narrowest escape.
"One of those bullets actually shot the throat microphone off my neck," he said.
The Liberator finally shook off the Zeros, but Jacobs still was faced with the problem of how to land when he reached this base without rudder control.
"I didn't have to worry long," he said. "A couple of the boys had an idea, so they went to work.
When we circled for our landing the rudder cable was as good as new."
Crain and Bruce took wire used to arm bombs and expertly spliced the broken rudder cable—a tedious hour-and-a-half job. Jacobs said the patched-up cable enabled him to make the best landing of his flight career.

The story of Crain and Bruce brought this comment from Brig.
Gen. Truman H. Landon, commander of bomber operations in the central Pacific:
"You can mark that down as another sample of American resourcefulness—the kind of resourcefulness that will win the war."

Bus Driver Finds 32 New Tires Along Road

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, May 6 — Jack Schrack, Lynchburg, O., bus-driver, told Police Sergeant Higdon Roberts that two miles east of Versailles, O., yesterday, he saw two tires alongside the road. He stopped and picked them up. A few feet farther along, he saw more—stopped and picked them up, too.
And it continued until he had 32 brand new tires packed into the rear of his Greyhound bus.
Roberts theorized that thieves had climbed onto a tire-laden transport truck and dropped a few off at a time, intending later to pick them up.
Federal bureau of investigation agents were notified.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKES: Mother's Day treat.
By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE, Associated Press Food Editor
Let the family give mother a surprise feast—and a day off from menu planning and cooking—on Mother's Day this year. Meat and butter ration points may be extra precious but there is no better occasion for a little spree in point spending. For mother, who has been busy wrestling with ration restrictions and food budget problems, deserves a real treat. A family reunion dinner, with married daughters and sons chipping in their ration points, will solve the food problem. One can furnish the meat, another butter, another rationed canned goods and so on. Have mother's favorite meat and the dessert that she likes best. If the family is small, with one or two children, they and of course Dad can enter into the spirit of the day by helping with

Senator Pitcher in Select Group

Gentleman from Venezuela Turns in Some Surprising Performances.

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

A lot of pitching surprises, as well as surprising pitchers, have sprouted this spring in the major leagues, but none has been any more amazing than that young (3) man from Caracas, Senor Alejandro Carrasquel of the Washington Senators.

The big Venezuelan is listed in the record books as 23 years old, 30 next July, but in appearance he looks to be anywhere between 30 and 40 and his teammates say there is no telling exactly how old he really is.

Anyway, he has been with Washington for four years prior to this season without ever winning more than seven games. But big Alex has opened the 1943 campaign by whipping the Philadelphia Athletics three times to take his place among a select little group of hurlers who have won three games without a defeat.

Yesterday he beat them 8-1 on four hits and the only run against him came on an error in the ninth.

The New York Yankees remained on top the A. L. by nailing out the Boston Red Sox 4-3 again in the ninth inning with the help of a balk by rookie pitcher, Anton Karl, who got excited when the Yanks loaded the bases and threw a pitch without having his feet on the rubber.

The second place Cleveland Indians divided a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox. They won the first game 2-1 but dropped the nightcap 5-2 when Dick Culler, Sox rookie third baseman, singled two runs across in the 11th inning. Wally Moses stole home to add insult to injury.

Frank (Stubby) Overmire secured his place among the year's surprising new pitchers by holding the St. Louis Browns to four hits while the Detroit Tigers rapped out a 5-1 decision—their fourth straight over St. Louis this spring.

The Brooklyn Dodgers plowed the Philadelphia Phillies back into the National League cellar with an 18-6 drubbing on the strength of 23 hits good for a total of 30 bases.

The St. Louis Cardinals were set down 2-1 in 14 innings by the Chicago Cubs as what looked to

THE MARION STAR

NEVER has the man-in-the-street had more interest in golf than in the summer of 1930 after word got around that Bob Jones would try for the "grand slam." There was a sigh of relief when the Atlanta ace won the British Amateur, May 31, the one title that previously had escaped him. Success seemed possible with his British Open triumph, June 20. Then came the big one, victory in the U. S. Open July 10. The clincher, the U. S. Amateur, came almost as an anticlimax, for Jones was rated far too strong for any amateur foe. No golfer had made the "grand slam," golfers say no other ever will. Here's Jones (left) as he received the championship trophy Sept. 27, from Findlay Douglas of the U. S. G. A. after defeating Eugene Homans (right) 8 and 7. AP Features

Herb Mosher, fishing editor of the Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel-Star has had considerable correspondence with the Ohio division of conservation and natural resources recently relative to the kinds of black bass in Ohio and also in the United States.

E. L. Wickliff, assistant chief of the fish management section states that in checking records "we find that Dr. Carl Hubbs, Michigan, reports a total of eight kinds for this country. Previous to June 20, 1927, fishermen, fish culturists, scientists and others recognized only two kinds—the smallmouth bass and largemouth bass—but on this date Dr. Hubbs threw a bomb shell into tradition and described a third species of black bass called the spotted bass.

Ohio immediately started to work on this fish and in May 1932, Joe W. Howland issued a pamphlet entitled "The Spotted or Kentucky Black Bass in Ohio". This illustrated booklet shows pictures of three species in Ohio, how to distinguish them, distribution in the Buckeye state, spawning habits, food habits and other points of interest.

During the Sept. 21-23, 1931, annual meeting of the American Fisheries society at Hot Springs, Ark., Dr. Hubbs, Percy Vossie of Louisiana, and Mr. Howland presented papers on the newly discovered spotted bass. Fish culturists and others attending the meeting were very much shocked and a number were somewhat skeptical. However, since that time Dr. Hubbs reports a total of eight kinds of black basses and the end may not be in sight.

These eight kinds include:

- (1) Northern spotted bass (found in Ohio)
- (2) Alabama spotted bass (A new sub-species)
- (3) Wichita spotted bass (A new sub-species)
- (4) Redeye bass (A new species)
- (5) Noosho smallmouthed bass (A new sub-species)
- (6) Northern smallmouthed bass (found in Ohio)
- (7) Largemouthed bass (found in Ohio)
- (8) Texas spotted bass (A new sub-species)

The head of a well-known firm making fishing lines writes "I never thought the time would come when I'd be saying of any of our products: 'I hope you'll never use it.' But I say it and mean it."

His firm is now making fishing lines for emergency fishing kits for the Navy, Coast Guard and other services to be used by men whose ships have been torpedoed or whose planes have been forced down at sea and who are suddenly confronted with the problem of staying alive until they can be picked up or reach safety.

SOX KEEP INDIANS FROM MOVING UP INTO FIRST PLACE

Tribe Wins One But Drops Second Game, 5-2, in Eleven Innings.

By The Associated Press
CLEVELAND, O., May 7.—The cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox yesterday spoiled the Cleveland Indians' chances to move into first place by winning the New York Yankees.

Chubby Dean's clever pitching sparked the Tribe to a 2 to 1 victory in the first game of a bargain bill, but the Sox capitalized on relief hurler Allie Reynolds' wildness to capture the 11-inning nightcap 5 to 2.

The Redskins complete their series with the Pale Hose at League Park today and then board a train for St. Louis, where they will oppose the Browns four times in three days. Al Smith or Vernon Kennedy will start the finale today with Lefty Wade the White Sox choice.

Despite his defeat, Reynolds made a good impression in his relief chore. He replaced Al Milnar when the Sox tied the score with a two-run blast in the third inning and he held them to two hits in the next seven stanzas.

The husky rookie lost his control in the 11th. He walked Moose Solters, Don Kolloway singled and Wally Moses also walked, filling the bases. Reynolds threw two quick strikes past Dick Culler, but the third baseman then singled and two runs scored. Moses added the other marker by stealing home.

In the first game, Dean limited the Chicagoans to six hits in eight and two-thirds innings.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I HURRIED back to John Hayes with the reassuring message from my father, then bade him adieu, glad to note his relief from terror and humiliation. As I went to my bedroom door I met Katharine.

"I heard everything," she said, "and I deduce from the fact that your father did not see fit to join the conference, that you have the situation well in hand."

There was the same lit in her voice which had been there when I told her of Jack's consent that she come down to the hideaway.

"So now," she went on, "the eagerness in her voice pathetically child-like, 'there is no reason why we cannot talk about Jack, and determine when I can see him.'"

Spencer Must Decide

I gave her a steady, half-respectful look.

"As I have told you before," I said, "that decision rests with my father."

"Oh, I know that," she said, "and I also know that I can see Jack for only a little while. I shall have to come back here to keep up the fiction about Mary's strained ankle."

I nodded absent acquiescence, for I knew my father was not yet ready to take Ronald into custody, thus freeing Mary from the necessity of further pretense.

Yet it seemed "cruel and medieval punishment" to vouchsafe Jack and Katharine only a brief glimpse of each other.

"You're thinking great thoughts," Katharine said suddenly. "Get out."

"Is there anything about that treatment of Mary's supposed injury that I couldn't be taught to do?" I asked.

DEMOGRAPHY is the science of the statistical study of population.

An article in "Fortune" magazine gives the opinions of the leading United States demographers on the United States population problem, which they believe is very grave. It is in the near future and concerns an increase in old-age population.

The birth rate is by no means any indication of population growth. From 1890 to 1930 the population of the United States increased from 5,000,000 to 135,000,000. Only a small part of this was due to an increase in the birth rate; a great deal of it was due to immigration.

Still another factor in population increase is the advance of medical science which saves human beings in the most precarious periods of their lives—that is to say, in infancy—and preserves them through childhood. The death rate in earlier days among those who had reached the age of 20 was immeasurably less than in the earlier period of life.

The birth rate in the United States fell fairly steadily from 1915, when it was 25 per 1,000 population, to 1935, when it was a little over 16 per 1,000. Since then it has been rising so that this year it will probably reach 21 per 1,000. It is undoubtedly in for another drop, beginning within the next two or three years. Birth rate, therefore, as we have said above, is not the criterion of population growth.

All these factors which have resulted in our population growth are likely to continue to operate so that we are faced with an increasingly older population. In 1915 15 per cent of the population were under 5 years of age; in 1940 about 9 per cent of the population were under 5 years of age. In 1840 49 per cent of the population were from 5 to 19; in 1940 25 per cent were of that age. People from 20 to 45 compose the most valuable population group economically. But in 1850 only 15 per cent of the population were over 15, whereas in 1940 nearly 39 per cent were over 15.

In 1930 it is projected that 5 per cent of the population will be under 5, 30 per cent will be from 5 to 15 years of age and 35 per cent will be from 15 to 45, while 25 per cent will be from 45 to 64, and over 15 per cent will be over 65.

This shift in the age of population groups is bound to make great social and economic changes. Business houses like Sears Roebuck already change the goods offered to the public to meet changing birth rates and old-age population. They are thus more alert to changes than the political planners. The age period for prime labor is 20 to 24. It is possible that we will have to institute training courses for men over 44 so for them for secondary labor up to the age of 50 or 70.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. B.—It is harmful to drink lots of water with the meals? Does milk promote growth in a person after the age of twenty?

Answer: 1. Water with the meals does not remain in the stomach for any length of time and does not mix with the food. It, therefore, does not interfere with digestion and it is not harmful to take plenty of it with meals.
